

Bite Me: Brazil radio script

MVO:

Brazil - a land of contrasts! From sandy beaches to the sandy tarantula - it's a place that'll always be close to your heart, just like Dengue Fever.

Nature lovers can take in Brazil's abundant wildlife. Literally, you'll be taking in deadly spores with every breath of rainforest air. And once it's inside your lungs, it's breeding time!

Take a dip and relax as a vampire fish swims up the urethra of your penis or vagina. Or be infested by parasitic worms that'll create a new ecosystem inside your rectum.

Brazil - if it doesn't grow on you it'll definitely get under your skin.

ANNOUNCER:

All new Bite Me. It's the gross side to the world's most beautiful destinations. 8.30 tonight on SBS One.

Bite Me: India radio script

MVO:

Exotic India – it's like travelling back in time to a land before immunisation!

Marvel at the incredible biological diversity, and that's before you've even stepped out of your hotel toilet. One animal every tourist loves is the friendly macaque, which in the local dialect means "chomping AIDS monkey".

Unwind and let medicinal leeches suck away all your worries and a fatal amount of your red blood cells. Or take a dip in the pristine Ganges. It's the perfect way for scabies mites to burrow deep into your anal cavity.

India: voted number one holiday spot by readers of Poisonous Spider Magazine.

ANNOUNCER:

All new Bite Me. It's the gross side to the world's most beautiful destinations. 8.30 tonight on SBS One.

Bite Me: Far North Queensland radio script

MVO:

Tropical Far North Queensland – Beautiful one day, infested by anal hookworms the next!

The scenery is to die for, which is what'll happen as you're trampled by a water buffalo on heat.

Get out to the Great Barrier Reef, and don't forget to pack your snorkel and a syringe full of anti-venom for Crown of Thorns starfish.

Enjoy a barefoot stroll on the beach where you can soak up the sunshine and the toxic poison from a washed up Stonefish.

There really is something for everyone, as long as by everyone, you mean people who enjoy being stung by Box Jellyfish.

ANNOUNCER:

All new Bite Me. It's the gross side to the world's most beautiful destinations. Starts 8.30 tonight on SBS One.
